W. P. BROOKS CO. OPENS ITS DOORS

It has been talked on the streets for several days that "Doc" Brooks would incorporate for the purpose of conducting a general brokerage and commission business at 110 Main street, former Red Cross room. The prime object is to list prospects and mining properties of all southern Nevada districts and sell to eastern promoters and brokers through modern and up-to-date methods of transfer, eliminating that great barrier, the tremendous expense which confronts them like a stone wall when contemplating the purchase of western properties. It was reported that the initial allotment of $7000 in the corporation was over subscribed. When questioned, Mr. Brooks said he had refused to place any more big blocks of the preferred, about one-half of which is gone, deciding the balance would be more beneficial to the company if held in small parcels by the local property owners and business people as every well organized business should have a stabilizing medium and the best booster is generally the fellow who is pushing his own cart. advA21

ORGANIZED FIRST TONOPAH EXCHANGE

Judge R. L. Johns, first president of the Tonopah Stock Exchange and lately a practicing lawyer in San Francisco is back to get in the old game and expects to make his home here. The visitor is filled with reminiscences of the early days of Tonopah and Goldfield in both of which he was an active figure. In Goldfield he presided over the first meeting held to organize the Goldfield Mining district at which the gathering resolved to change the name of the new camp from Gran Pah Little Water to the more striking and unmistakable Goldfield and the change was made accordingly with Claude Smith elected first recorder for the district. Mr. Johns also got in right when he acquired the January mine and was elected president of the Goldfield Mining company, predecessor of the Goldfield Consolidated, owning three of the richest claims in the district.

In relating his early experience the judge is not shy about admitting that he was practicing law in San Francisco when he heard of the Southern Nevada boom. He said he did not have much practice and therefore did not have to relinquish any great fees when he decided to strike for the sagebrush. He never regretted the step for the first year in Tonopah he cleaned up $25,000 as an attorney and ever afterward walked on velvet. He helped organize the first and only stock exchange in Tonopah with Henry V. Cutting for president. The institution was not popular for the reason that everybody wanted to sell and nobody wanted to buy and everybody was trying to do everybody else. Tom Lynch was one of the board of directors and Kenneth Donnellan was made secretary since he was the only one in the bunch that ever saw the inside of an exchange. Affairs went from bad to worse and the men behind the exchange ran considerable risk in going around town but they persisted in keeping the exchange going until one day Cal Broucker with an armed force invaded the premises and took forcible possession. That was the last of the Tonopah Stock Exchange.

AMUSEMENTS

WILLIAM RUSSELL IN SIX-REEL FEATURE

Film fans, the country over, have seen and admired William Russell, the heart-throb of innumerable photoplays in many stories; they have seen him in evening dress, cowboy shape, as a man of wealth, and as a human derelict. Today he will be seen at the Elks in a most unusual attraction, when he appears in "Hobbs in a Hurry," the six-reel comedy drama from the pen of George Lee McEndless. "Hobbs in a Hurry" is a breezy western story, depicting in comedy his and hard-boiled groups of distinguished American cowboys, and a number of unusual scenes aboard a limited express. Significantly the production is one of the ordinary in many ways, some of the back grounds being taken among the rugged foothills, while others are taken in a Pullman sleeping car. Russell disguising himself as a Pullman porter to be near the girl in love. The big attraction takes full advantage of the possibilities that lie in such a makeup and laughs gallop across as one watches his attempt to perform the routine duties of a Pullman porter, and makes a plaything that has proven one of the hits of the season.

Added to the program will be the third number of "The Son of Demetrius," Tomorrow, Mabel Norwood in "Six Hopkins."

Music's Value on National Life.

There is an old saying that music is the language of the soul. The constant increasing interest in music among the masses of this continent is a testimony to the value of music in the national life of our country and that of our neighbors.
